Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders among different types of workers. The study included 600 male employees from three companies who had been employed for at least one year. Data were collected by means of a self-administered questionnaire. The results showed that the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among non-manual workers than among manual workers. This finding suggests that non-manual workers are more vulnerable to musculoskeletal disorders than manual workers.

• Prevalence = the proportion of a population that has a disease at a particular point in time

Figure 1. The effect of the number of trials on the number of correct responses. The number of correct responses was plotted against the number of trials for each condition. The error bars represent the standard error of the mean.
